

Oregon's Growing Bioscience Ecosystem: What Policymakers Need to Know

November 15 | Knight Cancer Research Building | Portland, OR
Summit 2 – 5 p.m. | Reception 5 – 8 p.m.

Biotech Summit 2022 brings together bioscience researchers, leaders, and policymakers to explore how our region's public and private institutions can achieve a greater vision for growth and progress.

Economic development: Our bioscience story by the numbers – Liisa Bozinovic, Executive Director, Oregon Bioscience Association

Knight Cancer Institute (KCI) vision: Hear from Irene Barhyte COO, KCI on the future of early detection for cancer.

Research: Learn about the cutting-edge bioscience research being conducted throughout our region and the impact it could have on patients.

Startups and early-stage ventures: Surviving the valley of death takes access to space, capital, talent, and good public policy. Explore how our early-stage bio companies are faring.

Fireside chat with Genentech: Join the head of the Hillsboro Individualized Therapies division for an up-close conversation about what it means to have this facility in Oregon.

Bio on the Vine

Reception: Join us after the Summit for networking in the East Lobby. Sample fine vintages, paired with a wide selection of hors d'oeuvres.

Scheduled panelists include:

- Emmanuel Akporiaye Ph.D. | CEO, Founder, Veana Therapeutics | Earle A. Chiles Research Institute | Legacy Research Institute
- Shelly Barton Ph.D. | Co-Director of CEDAR and professor in the Division of Oncological Sciences KCI, OHSU
- Kaitlin Fogg, Ph.D. | Assistant Professor, Bioengineering, OSU
- Bernard A. Fox, Ph.D., | Founder and CEO, UbiVac; Earle A. Chiles Research Institute; Providence Cancer Institute
- Klaus Frueh, Ph.D., | Scientific Advisor and Co-Founder, Vir Biotechnology
- Astou Gaye, Vice President and Site Head, Hillsboro Individualized Therapies, Genentech
- Tim Layton, JD, MPA | Government Affairs, NW Region, Genentech
- Matthew H. Taylor, M.D. | Robert W. Franz Cancer Center | Earle A. Chiles Research Institute
- Andrew D. Weinberg Ph.D. | Chiles Research Institute | Providence Cancer Institute | Founder, President, & CSO, Agonox

Full details & tickets

This event is made possible by our Platinum members and event sponsors

